

The government has launched a co-payment campaign to help companies pay half the wages of new hirees, or up to 7,500 baht per person each month until September 30th next year. Companies in Phuket are encouraged to participate in the campaign to help new graduates find work. Businesses seeking to hire new employees can register their offers on the campaign's website. The government's co-payment campaign is applicable to new graduates with a bachelor's degree, vocational certificate, or a high school diploma for those no older than 25, with the exception of high school graduates for the classes of 2019 and 2020.
