

The Ministry of Public Health has enhanced medical services for newborn babies by upgrading the service quality and health facilities near their homes, as well as providing many training courses for physicians, nurses, and public health staff. The ministry aims to reduce the infant mortality rate and complications of diseases in babies. (2/12/2016)

---